Joshua Dean Real Estate Opens New Naperville Office

Looking to make a local and national impact, Joshua Dean opens its doors to business

Naperville, Illinois – June 17, 2007 – Joshua Dean Real Estate, Inc. recently celebrated the opening of its new Naperville office located at 1684 Quincy Avenue. Occupying all 2500 square feet of the entire second floor of the Lenert Plumbing building, Joshua Dean Real Estate has plenty of room to grow. The office is fully equipped to efficiently accommodate 15-18 real estate agents, much of which is private office space. The office also has a large conference room, dining room, print room and two restrooms. “This is probably one of the most comfortable and entertaining real estate offices in the area”, said Joshua Dean, owner and managing broker. “With plush leather couches and chairs in just about every common room, it’s a great place to bring clients, enjoy a coffee with fellow associates, or brainstorm new service and marketing ideas for the local market.”

Joshua Dean Real Estate was founded on the principle of ensuring that all home buyers and sellers are as educated about the real estate process as the professional REALTOR's working for them. As the previous managing broker for another Naperville real estate firm and the owner of a creative real estate product development company, Joshua Dean understands what it takes to attract top real estate talent. “This office will serve as the foundation for training both new and experienced agents in the changes that have taken place in the industry and provide the resources necessary to continue to make Joshua Dean Real Estate an industry leader in effective property marketing and real estate information distribution,” said Joshua. “There’s no other place that I’d rather lead this industry change than right here in the Chicagoland region.”
